The postponed annual convention of the Bow River U. F. A. District Association, No. 6, will take place at Enchant on Friday, June 16th. The business part of the program will commence promptly at 1 p. m. A public attraction is being arranged for the evening when Prof. Ottowell, of the Dept. of Extension, Alberta University, Edmonton, will speak. It is also hoped to have one of the women platform exponents at the evening session, to which the general public is invited. Invitations are being sent to the representative provincial M.L.As., Laurence Peterson and O. L. McPherson. Delegates are urged to arrive in time to register before the opening hour of the business session.

A few complaints have come in as to where the cutworm is working, but apparently it is only the fall plowing or stubble land that is affected. Weather conditions have been ideal for grain growing up to date and seeding operations are practically completed. A generous rain on Tuesday evening with the warm days following has forced the growth most rapidly. While moisture conditions are quite satisfactory, a week of rain like in pre-arid days would relieve the tension caused by the fear of another repetition of drouth. Some excellent fields of rye can be seen in the district, the best the Editor has seen showing a growth of about 15 inches. Foster's weather forecast says cooler weather and rains for the end of May, but, as The Press has warned before, Foster does not know a great deal about South Alberta.

Tom Vickers returned this week from a trip to Saskatchewan. He and Frank took advantage of the opening of the fishing season and visited Lake Newell on Wednesday, making a catch of five, in spite of the prevailing high wind.

W. H. Smith is utilizing his spare time in the construction of a radio apparatus and will soon be able to pick up the broadcasting concerts and bulletins being sent out from Calgary and other cities. The simplicity of this new discovery it making radioism quite a fad all over the country.

The residence of John Diluski south of Travers, was burned to the ground on Tuesday.

The relief agents at Lomond and Enchant have been ordered to close up shop and report for other duties, Tompkins going Calgary and Wilson to Lethbridge. Just how some people will subsist without further aid is a hard nut to crack. Some representations have already been made to the authorities on the matter but no information is available as to what may be expected.

The Ladies Aid Society met at the home of Mrs. Temple on Wednesday afternoon. Instrumental selections were given by Mrs. Hanna and Miss Aselstine and a solo rendered by Mrs. Dilley.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Anderson and family of Vulcan spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. R. L. King.

L.H. Phillips is suffering from a painfully sprained foot, the accident happening during an over-zealous moment on the newly marked golf links. The injury will confine him to the house for several days.

W. A. Teskey made a hasty trip to Calgary on Wednesday to effect delivery of two new Fords that he had sold to the Department of Agriculture, presumably for use during the work of the soil survey about to be undertaken throughout Southern Alberta.

J. E. Root is putting in the crop on the Brownlee farm (formerly owned by the Seamans).

W.H. Smith desires to inform the public that he has now included the John Deere line of farm implements to his business repertoire and is also taking care of the repair business in connection with same.

There is a general anticipation of a good time at Lomond on May 24th. There will be the invasion of the sporting element from Enchant and Badger Lake, as well as Pat Connolly's base ball moguls from Kinnondale. In lining up the events of the day one must not overlook the concert in the evening, as a good deal of preparation is being put into the program.

Harry Erskine has lined up his football "pet" for the 24th. as follows:

Goal, King.
Back, Tullock and Bell.
Half-Back, Cawsey, Henderson and Oakland
Forward, McLean, Abbott, Gilmour, Cant and Forster.

As a protection to wives and sweethearts, Jim Cawsey refuses to divulge the line-up of his base ball team.

W. A. Newton has leased the Dufty farm and is setting about to put it on a productive basis.

L. Rue is out from Nanton seeding his farm near Badger Lake.

G.M. Woods is out from High River supervising the revival of his farming interests east of town. He is as optimist as the Editor, at any rate.

The Smith outfit from Champion is busy seeding on the H. B. half section a couple of miles east of town.

Alf Walker tells us to keep our eye peeled for the baby grasshopper.

FOR SALE—Ford run-about cheap for cash, in good state of repair, equipped with Timken bearings, shock absorbers and adjustable driving wheel. Apply to Mrs. J. S. Sanson, care of E. Colwell, Kinnondale.

HORSE HAIR—Bring your horse hair to the Farmers Feed Barn. Cash Paid.—John Holo.

NOTES

Optimism is of little value unless tempered by good judgment and sound business principles. The element of luck is something seldom cashed in on by the average man. The foregoing might well apply to conditions in Southern Alberta. The salvation of this area is well assured, for The Press can see the wide adoption of real business farming principles by so large a percentage of those who have decided to stay and fight the issue through.

The hysterical cry for irrigation is now changed to a sane recognition of its ultimate need when it is possible to obtain it at a reasonable cost and under conditions that will relieve the holder of a large acreage from a burden that he would be unable to carry.

o o o

That part of the general public that is still deluded into the belief that the law of supply and demand regulates prices, will be doubly interested to learn that the United States senate has authorized an investigation into why gasoline prices should be advanced four cents a gallon in the face of the fact that the oil reserves are the largest ever recorded and also that the public demand is considerably below normal. There are many motorists in Alberta who would enjoy a reasonable price on gasoline.

o o o

Jos. T. Shaw, Independent Progressive member for West Calgary, speaking in the House at Ottawa last week in the debate on the freight rates, sounded a potent note of warning to the C. P. R. and similar corporations that are seeking to evade sacred contracts just because they embody terms that exert a financial "pinch". He referred to the numerous tax-exemption agreements and other special privileges held by the C. P. R., warning that a break in the Crow's Nest agreement (which on July first automatically puts the Western freight rates back on the 1914 basis) would create a precedent detrimental to other contracts.

o o o

The railways are apparently afraid of the labor situation. Some branches of railway labor are much to highly paid, when one places the figures alongside the earning power of the farmer and other lines of industry that provide the railway tonnage. But why not compel the railways to put in order their own affairs, like other institutions have had to do?

o o o

It invariably quickens our pulse when we read that little paragraph boasting of Alberta's coal reserves, particularly when we consider the price charged for coal in this province. Little wonder the market is limited and orders are insufficient for full-time employment. The miners must accept a reasonable wage, the operators must be content with a reasonable profit, and freight rates must come off their perch before the Alberta coal industry can be expected to thrive.

o o o

There is more than idle words in Lord Northcliffe's prophecy that the British Empire was in

Good Sport

Don't be a "sport"—as per the vulgar interpretation associated with that term—but set about to enjoy some line of good sport.

Make, a hobby of some game, be it base ball, foot ball, tennis, golf, fishing or shooting. Set aside a reasonable amount of your time and devote it to your own peculiarly chosen hobby.

Like David Harum's flees, a reasonable amount of sport will keep you from "broodin' over bein' a dog." It has a most refreshing result, both physically and mentally. No more emphatic argument could be used than the bye-word of Europe, "Lloyd-George does it."

danger of losing by secession the Western Canada provinces. He spoke largely on the bungle politically of the embargo against Canadian cattle. But it must be admitted that there is a considerable element in the West that is becoming intolerant of the impertinent dictation of Eastern Canada politicians and would gladly welcome a break in confederation and the establishment of a government in the West, by the West and for the West. This idea is largely the outcome of business conditions. The Westerner has become weary of his status of "family cow" to be "milked" by the Eastern financial combination. Right now in the Canadian parliament the Easterner is dictating the laws of the grain trade, while the Westerner grows the grain.

It is rather interesting to note that the arguments offered by the farmers in their appeal for a wheat board were at least more logical than the refutations made by the Financial Post—the voice of the grain dealers, the millers and the capitalistic interests. Inferring that a wheat board would raise the cost of living in the East to the benefit of the West, the Post cries against granting any such special favors. But who enjoys the favors distributed by Canada's protective tariff? It certainly is not the Western Canada farmer.

Speaking of tariffs, it is notable that the British government is reverting from the present protectionist policy to its pre war free trade policy. Also the sentiment in the United States is turning abruptly against the high protectionist blunder (ow) constructed by their vote hunting politicians. False standards can never be maintained indefinitely—not even in Canada.

It is easy to appreciate the sacrifice some of our influential politicians make towards the political welfare of the country when one learns that they are listed as directors in ten or fifteen large industrial or financial corporations.

H.G. Dimsdale, who last year was the engineer in charge of construction on the Canada Land & Irrigation Co. project and who spoke at the U. F. A. District Association convention held in Travers last June, has

FORESTVILLE

Mack Armstrong is farming the Billy Hill place this year.

Mrs. George Taylor and daughter, Elva, have returned from Creston, B. C., where they resided during the winter months and are taking up their residence on their farm here.

Josephine Ketchmark is slowly recovering from her serious illness.

Dr. Walkey and Frank Vickers passed thru Forestville on their way to the Bow River fishing. Getting after them early, eh?

From the amount of rain that has fallen in the last few days, the people of Forestville think this is the year for the big crop.

ADLER

Gladys McFall had a serious accident being badly scalded by the upsetting of mail of hot tea. Her many friends wish her a speedy recovery.

Miss Alice Palmer is staying at the home of E.H. Rand during Mrs. Rand's illness.

Mr. Aseltine is thinking of joining the poultry association.

There will be a dance held in the Adler School House on Friday evening, May 19th. Everybody welcome. Come and bring your friends.

Miss Clark was a visitor at the Rand home on Friday evening.

The Hawlbwachs Brothers must be expecting a big crop this year, as they work both day and night.

E. C. McFall and daughter, Belle, were called home last week from Coleman and Lethbridge, respectively, on account of the serious condition of Gladys McFall after her unfortunate scalding accident.

Emery Davis wishes his many friends to call on him, as he has again taken up residence in his bachelor quarters.

THE RED GODS OF SPRING

The incoming of spring brings a natural resurrection of spirit which manifests itself on every hand. Nature, held in bondage all through the long winter, throws off the shackles that held her in icy thralldom, and with sunshine and bright raiment is rejoicing in her newly found freedom. The spirit of quickening life and labor is felt by being and beast, bird and branch. All are awakening to a consciousness that a new life is beginning that calls for a greater degree of courage and energy than ever before. Memories of almost forgotten ambitions are revived. Dormant energies are pulsating and vibrating again with life. This is Old Mother Nature calling us to our tasks, rousing us to a determination to fight and conquer. Who has not felt life's blood course more quickly through his veins at this wonderful awakening period? The Red Gods are calling us—the gods of action—whose service calls for energy, tenacity, determination and ambition—all the needful essentials and important factors in the battle for success.

In handing these formal particulars to the editor a hint was given that The Press might embellish these statistics and focus a legitimate interest on the grand old game. The Press has never played the game but on many occasion has observed the results in others. It can be played solitaire or in one hilarious gang. It often encourages the association of a man with his wife or with some lady from whom a gleam of hope is given. It has the power to awaken the tired business man or wary banker at unearthly early hours in the morning. It can be played with equal indulgence by the fat and the thin. It ranks a close second to angling as the basis of semi-mythical stories of adventure and accomplishment. It takes people to the great outdoors and allows them to playfully practise the art of good judgement. We never heard of any harmful results from the game but have seen sedate men come in from the game acting like an Alberta farmer after a rain storm. In short, the results are all to the good.

An experienced golfer, in a fit of condescension, invited a novice to take part in a game. The novice, to the golfer's dismay and disgust, ploughed up the ground at every stroke.

After one particularly vicious dig, the golfer remarked, "you've revoked."

"We're playing golf, not whist," said the novice.

"Yes," replied the golfer, "but you have just played a spade where you should have played a club."

As Sir Wm. Osler once said: "The vital factor in disease is, after all, the power of resistance possessed by the individual." If the resisting elements in the blood are sufficient and in fit fighting condition, the invading hosts of disease germs may be halted, held at bay, and even annihilated. Hence the necessity for keeping our bodies physically fit and well nourished.

o o o

Measured in terms of fuel units, a half-pint of milk equals any one of the following: 2 eggs, a large serving of lean meat, 2 moderate sized potatoes, 5 tablespoons cooked cereal, 3 tablespoons boiled rice, 2 slices of bread. As a food for children it possesses the great advantage of a richness in lime salts for making sturdy bones and sound teeth.
